

Andrea King

Executive, Vice President, Gephardt Government Affairs

Andrea King oversees the firm's health care practice, bringing more than 25 years of health care policy experience. Andie served for 20 years as Domestic Policy Advisor to House Democratic Leader Richard Gephardt. In that capacity, she advised and assisted Gephardt with his leadership activities and managed domestic policy initiatives on his behalf.

Throughout the course of her tenure in the House, Andie assisted in the drafting of major legislation on Medicare, Medicaid, health care reform, long term care, child care, welfare reform, Medicare prescription drugs, Patients' Bill of Rights and education reform. She also served as leadership liaison to the Caucus Member Task Forces on homeland security, children, education, welfare reform and health care.

Andie joined Gephardt Government Affairs as an Executive Vice President in September 2008. Prior to joining the firm, Andie provided government relations advice and representation services to health care clients on legislative and regulatory matters in their dealings with the Congress and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS).

Andie served as an American Philosophical Association Congressional Fellow in 1983.

Andie earned a doctorate in Philosophy from Georgetown University and bachelor's degree in Philosophy from Goucher College, where she also taught Philosophy.
