

Catherine Goode

Vice President, Gephardt Government Affairs

Catherine Goode joined Gephardt Government Affairs in 2009 as a Vice President. Catherine currently directs strategic communications and provides government relations counsel to clients. She has strong experience in message development, strategic planning, and media training services. She has particular strengths in written communications and also regularly interacts with primarily print media contacts.

Catherine most recently served for four years as a Director at Quinn Gillespie & Associates where she represented clients on Capitol Hill, the Administration and White House on issues ranging from bilateral economic agreements, compensation of terrorist victims and H1-B visa issues. Catherine also provided counsel to international clients in their dealings with the International Community on efforts including NATO accession, EU accession and United Nations-mediated resolution of domestic and bilateral issues.

Catherine began her career as a Research Assistant to Chairwoman and Founder of Robinson Lerer & Montgomery, the nationally-recognized crisis communications firm in New York. She earned a master's degree in International Public Policy from Georgetown University and bachelor's degree in History from McGill University in Montreal, Canada. She hails from Houston, Texas and is fluent in French.
